PEOPLE DO THE SPACKIEST THINGS!

Coders certainly know which way their fascination is going as we likely just getting a bit dizzy.

DAYS OF THUNDER-JAWS

Just when you thought it was safe to go back to the computer store, Comex has decided to delay its Tengen license, Thunderjaws, for late September.

The game is a wild romp between sharks and meteorological weather maps (as it isn't, it's another Tengen shocker up, an I 10° - Thunder), or... between sharks and pirates in scuba gear. And you'll just have to wait a bit longer than!

GOING FOR GOLD

After three years in US-DoD's garage, Outrun Europe has finally made it onto the road and I thought the AA were quite efficient (some say)! What a ride it promises to be though.

It is a seven-stage race across Europe in a Porsche 911 (yes, it counts) or a Ferrari F40, avoiding French police and European ferrets. In an attempt to retrieve secret files. Counts like a race doesn't it - apart from the water problem (no real wanting to go to the loo abroad but crossing things like channels - well those wonderful! Business have invented a Turbo charged Power Boat - so no worries.

Watch out for the full game in September but don't think or you'll miss it (apart from).

WITH BEVY BABES

MAKE YOU GO HMMMM!

Time to get your shoes and socks off and your fists out for the bats as we peek at US Gold's Final Fight.

Unless you've been on the Planet Zoid for the last five years, you'll know that Final Fight is the sequel to none other than Street Fighter, that kick-ass-up-where-you-came-face-to-face (or foot-to-foot) rather. With some of the meanest punks on the streets, the sequel is not that different. You play Happer (ex-Streetfighter not cartoon villain), now Mayor of the City, whose delectable daughter Jessica goes and gets herself kidnapped by the brutal Mael Greed Gang - obviously a setup by Guiguen to make the sequel profitable.

Anyway it looks to be a good old fist, foot and knee spectacular if you like that kind of thing with colourful and huge sprites. You can bet though that it won't be The Final Fight - even the Last Things survived 3 fights.

GOING DOWN A STORM

US Gold's delayed Alien Storm sci-fi sci-fi operation is now imminent, cool! The game promises to have three large arcade sections, as it often was based around other games.

Finally, there's a Golden Age-style scroll-to-the-end-of-the-world, where you (and a mate, if you can stand being snail along a horizontally-sliding background) heading and kick the crap from outer space (Milton Keynes). They could be cheap (like anything from Craig, Adams, Dan Quayle and other planks) or good.

Then there's an Operation Wolf section where you, guess what? Blow away alien space alien squad! And, finally, a shoot-the-evil-robot-section as you run at breakneck speed towards the end-of-the-world as our Gold's friends!

THE DREAM TEAM

Who are these people? Where do they come from?

We like to actively stimulate the YC editorial staff's imagination, so we asked them what their favorite vegetable matter was and to do and impression of it, as best they could with out resorting to physical violence.

Jason
"Medallion Man" Miller

Jason, being the person he is, opted for the olive orange.

"Call me old fashioned", he says, but the plain old orange is and my favorite since when it comes to munching fruit."

"Listen," he stressed defensively, "you can do all sorts of things with them. You can squeeze them, put them into mugs and put them on the side of your drink, and ... and ..."

His rather modest impression consisted of sitting on the floor and painting his face. As it happened to prove a point, he even placed a piece of green paper on his head.

This lasted for about a minute, before he told us to stuff our feet where the sun don't shine and stormed out shouting about how oranges will always exist.

Boo! Out of here!

Richard "Er,
I'll do it"
Taylor

"Oh, because definitely" exclaimed Richard like, really good for you and can help enhance your cholesterol level if taken in excess. Really high in store and sodium you could practically live on them! In fact, certain tribes in continents in South America have been known to rub them gingerly on themselves and eventually (in place of sex), by the way and many experienced health problems. So there you go!"

Dr. Richard Richard, his over-the-top impression consisted of ying on the floor covered in a blue-lust which his propensity to peel off "Oh no!" he screamed, "Oh my God no! Please don't peel me! AAAAAAGGGH! In the name of things holy please don't eat me!"

This rather disturbing display lasted for about two minutes and inspired the editors completely.

Boo! Out of here!

Rik "Monster Munch"
Henderson

YC a group editor looked a little

Jeff "Navigator" Davy

"I like mango!" cheered the excited editor. "They're really juicy and they taste like rice. I think a close second place has to be the avocado or garden potato. They are just so versatile! You can make them, bake them, fry them or even add them and make a rather powerful alcoholic beverage."

As for my impression, I'll go for the mango. Here it is...

Runs up in a rather odd shape and less excited (not for his mouth).

Hey woe, I really know how it feels to be a mango!" Thanks, Jeff, it cut off for when almost when asked that question.

"Do peels once (cute horses about)" he inquired "What about choc chips? I know! Coca Cola contains vegetable extracts. It says so on the tin. So therefore my favorite vegetable is coca cola!" W! D! R! K! Do you think you could impersonate one.

His looking a little confused at this comment.

"How about if I place them and make feeding noises for a few minutes? I could point white and red strips down my side if that would help..."

Oh dear, ending and of the stock completely. He's out of here!

ON THE TAPE

What do you get if you shove a mouse and some cheese into a liquidizer? Mouseronic cheese! Err, very poo-er indeedly. Why do you bother?

THE CONTENTS

Side A: Football Manager - remember this?

Side B: Gold Train - a totally original arcade game
Tank Battalion - er, an arcade game

There are plenty of options, all obviously named in the game. They are easy to access so the play is very straightforward. I think the first action I can see on this is to just load it and try playing.

FOOTBALL MANAGER

Programmer: Kevin Taylor
Type: Strategy game Controls: Keyboard

If you don't remember this game or have never played it before, then here's a few brief instructions:

The idea is to take your football team from the bottom of division four to the top of division one, winning the FA cup as many times as possible on the way. Sounds easy!

You can buy and sell players, you have a limited budget (so don't over spend) and eventually you have to pay them as well.

GOLDTRAIN

Programmers: David Shepherd and Dominic Taylor with just a helping bit of help from Richard Taylor
Type: Arcade game Controls: Joystick only

The year is ad 1848 (ok I suppose), and the Californian gold rush is at it's peak.

Tremendous amounts of gold are being transported across America to major cities and ports.

While all this gold moving around there's bound to be a few bandits waiting to pounce and steal it, not by robbing one of the Gold Trains. That's what the US government thinks, which is why they have grouped together a team of worthy, brutal cavalry types to escort them.

HOW TO PLAY

You control the horsemen with the joystick. Controls are, dash (no fire) move in normal directions, fire and back to jump, fire and forward diagonally to shoot and fire and left or right to jump left or right.

Forward and back with no fire will accelerate and slow the horse.

Back fire is to build up fuel speed, and run ahead of the train.

If you reach a station (for energy re-charge and pick up extra gold) before the rails, don't worry. It will pull up in its own time. It's a never really that far behind you.

TANK BATTLEZONE

There was a slight problem with the duplication on my tape of it, in all of its full attack glory! Hurray!

Programmer: Andrew Boxall
Type: Complete game - arcade action

Controls: Joystick is part 1 and part 2 for two player game.

It was checked, ran dry during World War 1, that a special attack squad should be sent behind enemy lines to try and take out a rather large munitions factory. A squad was assembled which consisted of a tank and 'helicopter' it was named the 'battlezone' squad.

They had to travel across a large, heavily-defended land, but it was hoped (due to the expertise of the squadrons), that they could gain an entrance.

It they had to destroy

then they could work well together - being on ground and in the air.

This scored like an impossible task, and if they ever made it back they would be listed as heroes.

It is a dangerous mission and once again, it's up to you.

HOW TO PLAY

Two players can play simultaneously, one controlling the tank and the other the helicopter. A joystick in each game is needed, although one player can play with joystick in either port.

The aim is simple: shoot all the defences and try to make as much progress as possible.

The tank can only drive on the roads, but the helicopter can fly anywhere. The screen scrolls up only, so be careful in the tank that you don't run out of road if turning a double left or right corner.

The control can get pretty fast, keep cool and work together!

"LAND OF MAY"

THE RETURN OF VIRTUAL REALITY

Still wearing his YQ 'cut-out-and-keep' Virtual Reality headset, Jeff Dawy stumbled down to London's Rock Garden and Trocadero to lose himself in some more virtual worlds.

Last time we saw Virtual Reality land, please can we just call it VR from now on, please? It was quite good, with all the issues full of journalists and other degenerates. The consequences are two

In the massive surroundings of Wembley Conference Centre - which was full of Press people, the rest of the world, and their dog. VR industries were showing off their state-of-the-art VR arcade machines which offered in TOL, a hammer run, and Ballingphers, a space action game.

It's all a bit more intricate this time - outside the Rock Garden, a restaurant and famous pig venue in London's Covent Garden. Tourists and other curious podiums. Both have a person on them, a person with a VR headset. Each is clutching a joystick, on the end of a shower-pipe-style rental cable which leads to a small stand-park, and is moving their head around in a very strange fashion indeed, as if watching a group of performing, slow-motion high-jumping rabbits.

Next to each podium (which sits a good 15 feet away from each other) is a monitor, on which can be seen what the food in the headset can see.

This turns out to be Nightmare, a new VR game for "experience" - as the Press Release would prefer us to call it) which involves neither plants nor spaceships but walking around and shooting things.

But there are no ordinary things to shoot. Nightmare has - apart from swamping, green, fire-breathing gnomes/elys who'll tear you to shreds if you let them get too close - the best kind of opponent of all. A real, live, human opponent. These two positions are linked until it's over to the death line.

Nightmare takes place in a 3D virtual battle arena, made up of blocks, steps, platforms, lifts and columns and which appears to be suspended in the middle of space - you can see the stars. As you move your head, so the view follows. If you press the top button on the joystick, you walk forward. The other button fires your grenade/rocket pack!

The two players arrive in the arena simultaneously, and have five minutes (that's what you get for time not being to first and kill each other as many times as possible).

It's pretty good too. The fact that there's a human opponent makes it even better.

It's open to the public at the Rock Garden from now on, too.

The action moves to the Toulouse, down the road at

Placidly Drive

In the middle of the Time's tourist-trapery lies the Fun Land arcade, which was one of the first places to install the original 3-DTL and Battleground VR units. Now they've got a new attraction: Total Destruction.

What this may sound like it involves smashing the whole place up before the security guards drag you away, yelling and screaming. It is actually a shock-car racing game.

These sit-down units are basic. They come with a hinged front that closes down over your legs, two pedals (accelerator and brake), a two-position gear stick (forward and reverse) and a steering wheel, as well as the ever-present headset.

Four units (joined two opposite each other) are linked together in this 3D race game, which is more in the style of Road Drive. Then, say. Continental Circus and its ilk.

The race starts and well you just have to race around swiping on the track and guarded by massive red and yellow (badly drawn) fire trucks, trying not to cause too much damage and bumping into other racers.

What this game does does the same and gets into you.

It has a very loud soundtrack to go with it in which a voice that sounds just like Steve Martin shouts "Go ahead! Demolish them!" throughout.

The game tests and stimulates nerves, not only you but also the two other people. A lot of money, really. But for VR moves onwards and, whilst these may not be the best things since sliced bread they are still a good taste of the future. What ever could be next?

OOZIN' EUGENE'S SCUM OF THE EARTH

Eugene yawned lazily, stretched and sat up in bed. He stood, took one pace, trod on a paper package containing cold chips, gravy and a rather large pickled onion and proceeded to skid across the room.

His movement was soon halted by a large bag containing hundreds of letters from excited readers explaining their latest strategic pokes and key depressions to enhance game play on a rather good computer.

"Oh God," he said, "I've got bloody loads of work to do."

Yes Eugene, you have. You'd better get on with it now!

More splendid cash prizes go out this month: a rather large chunk of which finds its way into the wallet of a Mr B J Clarke in Essex. He has sent in a rather superb map and codes for WC a excellent cover game, Wizard of Werdnahan.

Thanks B, or was it not you BUT 10 quid is coming your way very soon!

The pokes to go with the are POKE 48025, H8
for infinite lives

POKE 48721, A for extra keys, rings and diamonds. It is for how many of each you require.

You need plenty!

For a complete cheat, type
POKE 48743, 18
for all the pieces of the ice.

To start the game again, type
POKE 48028

Unfortunately, when you reset the game (which you will have to do to enter the pokes in the first place), some data corrupts and renders some of the scores inaccessible. This would not happen if you are using a cartridge such as Action Replay or the Super, but will if you just normally reset your computer.

WIZARD' LAIR

Now for some Speedball. I tip from our very own office barista picker, Richard Taylor.

When you head up the field when the game first starts (or after a goal has been scored), run straight towards the ball and just before you reach it, pull the joystick up and right and keep pressing fire. If it works, the ball should hit the defender and bounce back into the goal passing straight through the keeper. It may need to be hit again but your winger should be right next to the ball anyway. It takes a lot of practice, but when you have mastered it, it means you can score goals very easily (five seconds, usually).

Another piece of advice is to target going for some enthusiasts (the fairly big on the side) and just try to keep the opponents away from them. They always go for them and seem to end up getting both men if you're trying to get them yourself.

It is also worth saving your energy for a bit and buying the players.

Also, if the opponents keeper appears to have "flood" in the corner, run up and take the ball straight off him. He shouldn't put up a fight.

Thank you very much, Richard. 50 quid is on it's way! Or maybe we'll just give you your normal wage.

PANG

On this game, press a pause twice in quick succession whilst moving on to the next level. If it has worked, you should be rewarded with infinite lives. Couldn't be easier!

A couple of gems from Robert Allen in Mid-Gameplay

On level 1, if you pause the game and then press the Continue key followed by O and the Continue key again, you should be given infinite jumps and telescopes.

A cartridge code for Baut and Christensen, type POKE 28475,155 for infinite lives and energy.

Cheats Robert: Never coming your way (hey hey hey)

According to Greg Douglas from Stonhouseman in Scotland, if you press G during play in Test Drive II, you will stop to the next level. Well I never!

Mr A.H. Orychous from Northamptonshire (according to the poemists, and they don't miss around) sends the following tip:

Border

On the high score table enter your name as RTUE, with a space before the R and you can now select any mission.

Graphics

Once the game has loaded, wait for the title music to end and then Enter to stop dancing. Put the joystick in port one and supply it the energy. The Enter should now do an odd sort of frantic dance and eventually turn grey. Once this happens, put the joystick back in port two and start the game with infinite lives.

Graphics 2

On the high score table enter your name as SMATTA for infinite lives.

G's Elephant Action

Try POKE 16426,165 for lives on port one and POKE 16571,155 for the same on port two. Type SYS 1144 to restart the game.

WINGERS CORNER

Lots of people wringe all the time. Why? Various reasons... some people find it out of boredom and some have genuine reasons. Some people are not happy with their lives and some die it through greed. In this column however, people can not happy with the way they play their computer games and need some help to improve their play. Heavy problems, huh?

If you feel the same way about a certain game, send a letter to "WINGERS CORNER" at the normal YG address. If you can help these people, send advice to the same place.

Matt Goodley of Newcastle requires some assistance on Duff and Gruesome and would really appreciate a cheat table and a poke to remove the "all enemies must die to advance to the next level" feature. What a great feature that is.

Peter Copeman, your Frosty help is finally on it's way! A poke to remove various enemies (including the famous "dunk ID") will appear in next issue. Sorry about the delay, we had Pam Taylor around the head several times to make him do it, but unfortunately we had him so hard on it having to spend a few weeks in hospital.

Bill Schultz needs help on the all-time 64 classed, RED I, II & D. A poke for unlimited lives would really go down a treat.

Remember Confusion? Well Remmy Thacker in Norwich needs a cheat badly. Well, starting, if you enter eighty type LGAD 11, 1,8 when loading the cassette version to make every second level accessible.

Tammy Horner, who lives in Cressle Hulse, needs some help with International Soccer OK. Tammy, when you start the game, get in the situation you are facing and look the ball into the back of the first net you see. This should give you an advantage over your opponent. Keep doing this until the final whistle blows. (That's enough joking about, Ed.)

Can you poke? Well what are you waiting for? Hack away at the latest and requested games and sort out some serious cheats! Major prizes await those with the best and most original pokes. Come on you hacking ninjas, get to it!

A reminder that POKÉ entry information was given in the July issue of YG. Please refer to this for instructions.

SOME ADVICE ON CHEATING ON GAMES

If you own a utility notebook or a Action Replay, Expert, Final etc that permits a machine code monitor, then you are able to cheat on most games. There is some advice on removing enemy soldiers.

Some games use the standard hardware write to spare detection. To remove this, first enter the memory as explained in the cartridge manual.

After that type
 @B00FFFF 18 00

This switches the memory for reference to spare collisions. If any cartridge is present after pressing return, it is 100% or what ever, then type

D 10FF

Always use the logic provided in the printed manual. When it fails, press on edge. If it reads L0A5000E, or LDY or even L000, then you are on the right track. Now change the to read L7FA 0000 followed by NOP.

Enter this by moving the cursor up to the statement in question and typing over it. Press return after each entry.

Now return to the game as specified by the cartridge instructions. If all has worked, spare collisions should now be removed.

If you want to change it to background collisions, then change the 1E to 1F.

The sports/league collections should work on games such as Mario Mania, Fantasy Baseball and loads of others.

The Sports/Background collisions should work on Armadillo, Parkies, Dig Dug and again on loads of other games. Try it and find out which ones work.

A certain Rick from Northampton sends the following tips,

New Zealand Wars

If you have it tape version of this game, then when you die at level 1-4, leave the tape running and the next level will load. If you have the standard Commodore tape deck, then if you load the tape to 125 level 3 will load. Also try 126 for level 4, 157 for level 5, and 173 for level 6.

It-Type

POKE 12410, 173 for infinite lives and POKE 12755, 26 for no enemy soldiers. Type SYS 2266 to return.

Breakouts

POKE 5547 0 for infinite lives and SYS 2266 to start again.

Chess HD

When playing the game, hold down the fire button and type 00000000. From now on, pressing 0 will start your time.

Simon

Cartridge poke only. POKE 58305 173 for unlimited lives.

Billwinn

Another cartridge only poke. Try POKE 58200, 173 and POKE 44344, 189 for a cheat mode.

Thanks, Rick. You get 10 pounds for that.

A cheat for the old

Intertec game. Agamemnon. When playing the game, hold down the Commodore key, shift and the joystick right.

Keep doing this until your sub disappears, and you can now travel anywhere.

On the subject of Intertec games, on Trille Walk cross the back arrow and type MUG. The cheat mode will now be cooperative.

Thanks all for the recent help! If anyone has any IDs, pokes, maps or any kind of help on any 64 game, then send it to:

CHEAPSTERS FOR YOUR LOVE

Code Masters are no longer just boy whizzkids. The company has transformed, while no-one suspected, into the most successful software house in Britain. Jeff Davy (clutching his legendary YC cardboard camera) ventured deep into the English countryside to meet the Darling posse.

"We're on the verge of being the biggest thing around here," laughs Code Masters' Pili supreme Mike Clark, as we speed down small Warwickshire lanes in his rather powerful sports car, "who else has got some?" We must be the biggest software company in Britain!

That's slightly misleading, and he knows it. But when we glide up the gravel drive of the Godine HQ it's easy to believe he could be right. A basic farmhouse, surrounded by towering hedges, now has a mass of extensions added to it. The ultra-vision complex is a few feet from the huddle of postboxes situated around the rear that made do as offices last time YC paid a visit.

Out the back, there is a lake—or it is a bog made by Richard Darling and a friend (Mike insisted on naming me around it. "It was I said" promises Mike) as he wags the craft from side to side and images the car in brackets and dashes.

To one side of the farmhouse is a well-lit massive barn (see below), from which there are occasional mooring sounds. Says Mike, as another "moor" fills the air, "They're involved in breeding ones, I'll leave the rest to your imagination like do get some really strange noises coming over" inside, the office and a host of activity. Over 30 people are on the payroll, assistants, people, programmers, executives... the latter are slumped on the new executive floor (well, an upstairs bit, anyone) where Mike and the Darlings have their offices.

Code Masters now sell more games than any other software house in Britain. For what it's worth, they have over 20% of the market (according to Games, whose business it is to know these things). Their next goal is to even closer. "We rule the 3-bit world," says Mike, before joking. "We're so good at the software industry, the challenge is dominating what by world!"

"Don't print that!" he adds, suddenly seeing me scribble his every word into my notebook.

The Code Masters/Darling story is one of a medieval one. David and Richard Darling were young, talented, programmers who (but don't have me explain. How it is Richard Darling's own words.

"Around 1983, David and I were about 13, soon being 16 months older than me, and our parents lived in Canada. I think they wanted to make sure, although they weren't with us, that we got nice presents. One Christmas a cheque arrived, so we went to London and bought a VIC-20 (the computer before the C64).

"They were launched in the US a year before Britain and before we left Canada, a friend of ours brought one and we spent a lot of time about it."

"I'd always like electronics and I seemed absolutely ravenous to produce something with a soldering iron. With very little effort, you could make a machine do things."

"Once we bought the computer, we used to write games for it, too. There when it was available. We started to place ads in Popular Computing Weekly (an old computer magazine).

Under the name, Galactic Software, and we offered the "No. 1" pack. It did fairly well. This was the end in 1980.

There was the LPT Show (the show before September's annual CES at Radio City) and we had a stand. We met up with several computer companies, including Mastertronic (the first budget games company) and got contracts to produce games for the C64 for them.

Pretty soon it became apparent that Mastertronic was going to go plain. We moved to London and formed AIP. We produced all the software they sold, in April 1984.

"It was very successful but it was heading in a different direction to us. We wanted to concentrate on producing original software, so we settled up with them and started our own company."

"We took nine months out, putting the games

The Strangest Thing That Ever Happened to ROBERT BARRING...

When I was in Taipei (in Taiwan), where we were having some cartridges manufactured, we went out to a long street with market stalls. It was only six feet wide. There were shops that sell hot snacks, food as a beverage.

"The Chinese drink a Bok that drinking the blood of snakes is very medicinal."

"They have these live snakes hanging down and they cut their throat, let them up, get a jar, and pour the blood into it."

"The specialty is one of the organs from the snake: a little grey thing, and they add this green stuff from inside this organ. People pay a lot of money for that."

SPOT THE DIFFERENCES!

The Terminator is back! But which picture is which? One of these people is a future-seen android with an Un-learn and one is a PC person for Britain's biggest budget software house. Can you tell the difference, readers?

ready to launch. The philosophy was to release original games over all formats.

"In September 1989 we launched and it all went very well. We followed up with another batch of 12 games. The flagship was DMA- Simulator which was the bestseller.

"David had the best-selling game the year before with The Last of us and we were happy and busy producing these games on a small industrial estate in Maryland.

"Then things started to expand. We said sorry, very boldly that we were going to be Number One within a year. We got there within 12 months of launching and a year then we're back able to hold it."

As Hester, with Mike, for the day I ask Richard why, as a teenager, he chose to program computers. "I didn't like skateboards," he laughs. "No," says Mike, with a mischievous grin, near the good PR-person, "it was a prediction of future trends."

Whichever, they're number one and they're riding high.

THOSE NEW CODE MASTERS GAMES IN FULL...

Hidden away down some stairs is a room full of computers with the Code Masters games ready to run. Initiating code is Paul Hester, the "lead" Development Manager (this means he talks to the programmers and where there when they're lost).

There haven't been many Code Masters CBA releases, recently. "We're trying to hold back games now, to ensure the popularity of them. MegaMan's quality is what we want." And don't they show the signs of being up to the pressure. And don't they show the signs of being up to the pressure. And don't they show the signs of being up to the pressure.

A simple idea, quite nicely executed, which should provide a good challenge.

desired TV caps but, as Code Masters' legal department wouldn't like to be involved with an illegal, unlicensed American lawyer, so we'll just pretend it's a coincidence, right?

The action takes place in a range of urban streets, which even includes a raised train-line (although you can't give these undergrounds a, like in "French Connection"), and your mission is to catch a criminal by, um, racing around like a mad person.

MEAN MACHINES

A "Synthesizer"-style game, which is intended to be really fun. You drive your mean machine up the road avoiding obstacles (like buses) and other cars, which try to smash you. Defeat and make you crash.

To make it a little more interesting, you can pick up various weapons to help you on your way and drop oil behind your car to get other vehicles.

MIAMI CHASE

Amiga owners have already seen this one. It sounds exactly like it ought to have something to do with well-

SKY HIGH STUNTMAN

Hands up who likes vertically-scrolling shoot-'em-ups. Right, it's a good few of you, then. Well, this is for you, mate.

You play (rather bravely) a stuntman who must fly a balloon, biplane, jet and helicopter - all in the same or good, high-speed action.

It's really presented and, says Paul, "the music is really brilliant." But then he would say that, wouldn't he?

SLIGHTLY MAGIC

This is a game in the Olympic mini-sports/taekwondo mould involving a tennis wizard called, yes, you've guessed it, Slightly Magic. By hurling around the wizard's smelly socks (full of bouncing meanders and powders), manipulating them in a long word, the objects you find along the way, you can complete the game and become a better wizard.

COMMON COMPETITION BMX 2 SIMULATOR YE GRANDE 'ONE MORE THAN THREE' CODIES COMPO!!

The lads were all sitting round t'other day and scratching their mop-tops. "We haven't runs beg compo since... since the England game," said Patsy. "Oh no," said Jeffrey, "we'll have to sort that out then!"

With one brief phone call and a lot of arm-twisting he got those incredibly wonderful fellows at Codemasters to give us some incredible prizes to give away. Then he went off into the Warehouse and had a bit of a lie down, for he was surely gob-smacked at the generosity of the amazingly skill budget game company!

"WHAT DO I HAVE TO DO TO BE SO AMAZINGLY PRIVILEGED?"

First you have to stand on your head for four minutes. Then, eat four eggs, jam sloughs without using your lips!

And tell four different people on the street that they have a personal odour... a problem. (You don't have to do this, but we'd wager you'd only live for four days in a coma if you did. Ho! Ho!)

Really, you have to examine the four following questions below and scribble the answers on a postcard, crinkled envelope, then send it to:

"Two Four-gotten what I'm Meant To Be" Compo, YC.

20 Porters Lane,
Kils Park,
Milton Keynes,
MK11 3HP

It must arrive before the closing date of October 4th 1991 or it gets bolly well thrown in the bin, m'lady!

THE QUESTIONS

Who are the odd ones out in these sets of four?

1. Yogi Berra, Roger Rabbit, Jerry Mouse, Bob Hoskins
2. Kenny Dalglish, Graham Southey, Bill Shankly, Bob Holmes
3. Madonna, Kyle Minogue, Jason Donovan, Cathy Dennis
4. Nick Cotton, Pauline Fowler, Harold Bishop, Frank Butcher

WHAT ARE WE GIVING AWAY THEN?

Thanks to these fell Coders we've got four Game Cams (the wonderful new hand-held portable cameras) to give to four winners (can you see a trend starting here?)

Wink! Each of the four winners receives four different Codemasters Quadro packs (it's pretty obvious) - Datsun, Ferrari, Firepower and Arcade.

Not only that but four runners-up get the Quadro packs too (that's right there's a rather clever trend involved here around the number four, isn't there? Ooo... We're so subtle sometimes!)

Oh, by the way, I've lent parts of my column (the first person to say so-er, gets a jolly hand kicking in the private place - just 'round the back of the secret tree) to a few of my spring-office chums, and that means we can have a few more of your letters, Burs!

OOO... WHAT A LONG ONE!!!

I've decided to take up Thomas Brown's stance by writing to put you straight as to why YC is falling to bits. What? Are the letters falling out? - PAQ.

I buy three Commodore related mags, and I'm afraid that YC is lagging way behind the other two. They are both crammed full of stuff, and what do you offer? A photo story? Can't reach of a sales figure?

Okay, enough moans. First of all, get the price right (er, I thought you said "rough guess"? - PAQ). It should be £3.50 like the other two, which would help cover the cost of a tape box. This is a help when deciding which mag to buy. If it looks as though money has been spent on production, the kids love it.

Five, something that all the mags that have tapes should do, is put games only on one page, either side, so it can be removed and be more handy when you are playing the games.

Don't spend the free tape certain over the pages, get it on one page and it would save time spent on searching for playing instructions. I also agree with Tom about more stories, I'd like two games and possibly two stories.

Okay, to keep in line with other letters here's some questions.

1. Could you give us any more info on the C65, or haven't you left heard about this yet? The most important thing I want to know is, will everything I've bought so far games (as far as playable on the new C65 - I'd like to buy it all again?)

2. What's been the highest rated game so far in YC?

3. What's been the low est?

4. Have you got a copy of Shadow of the Beast around that is-once wanted?

5. And can I have it? Well, that's that. I hope you'll take on-board my suggestions - I'd like to see YC out-sell those penny other C64 mags, as you share have a bit of fun in your mag in the of providing them material - PAQ, and I'd like that game I mentioned I knew it - PAQ.

Tiffin, Loughborough

PS. Barry Babes contraspeed please, playing page three style, thanks!

PA. Finally, it's that old C65 debate again. I don't think that two scinty pieces of plastic are worth $5p, and anyway the worst injury you can cause someone to have with them is a small black mark's print on the leg or, and what use is that in combat?

What we'd like to concentrate on is bloody good games on the tape, and forget about the packaging. And like you said, YC is the only comics mag with a bit of fun.

As for your questions
1. I find maging

Speedball II

Dr W.P. Lighthouse (who looks suspiciously like Richard Taylor) wearing his James Caan stick-on sideburns, takes a look at the further fixtures of the future's fave sport.

These kind of games aren't really my thing, so I wasn't looking forward to reviewing this. I find the whole concept really boring, and Amiga Speedball I, I found really tedious.

Why is it then that this game has kept me up until the small hours, with three days solid of playing and the use of physical force to remove my brother from it? My opinion of it has changed very dramatically.

This is an incredibly addictive game. I found the one player option much more challenging, as opposed to a two player simultaneous game.

The idea is simple enough. You take control of a team of, to say the least, rough looking people in an attempt to work your way up through two divisions of Speedball league.

You can alter an individual's strength and play-power through a series of statistics including their physical stamina, speed etc. These can be bought only, so with your limited cash you must spread your spending evenly as possible across the individual stats.

There is an option to modify them as group (science, midfield and attack) or as a whole team. Other players can be bought, but these are quite expensive and you need to look far in advance to afford them.

Once you have initially modified your team, then you can start play. You take control of Brutal Deluxe, a poor and fairly weak team at the bottom of the second division. You must play other teams such as the notorious Steel Fury and Danodles and the very poor Revolvers.

When the play begins, you are the red team. It is set out in similar fashion to Kick Off, with a vertically scrolling screen with goals at either end. The player under your control is the one with a semi-circle over his head. Once play starts, time for violence!

A good idea is to pass the ball as much as possible and try to punch out the opponents' players. There are bonus 'hardy bits' on the side of the play area, which if activated will double your score when a goal is scored.

There are also plenty of bonus ball items lying around the play field and some which are essential as you can buy things after the match. Bonus stars also indicate speed, which really does speed the play up something awful, penalties which frustrate your opponent for you if they pick it up, a sustainability which renders you immune to tackles, or plenty of others.

All of these can be picked up by the other team, so be careful and make sure you get them first.

On the side of the pitch is a small button which will directly the ball, meaning that only your team can pick it up and knocks your opponents for foul. Very annoying sometimes, especially when the ball goes straight through their goal keeper!

There are positions on the side which the ball can be thrown into, for a bonus two points for your score. Ten points are awarded for a normal goal, or fifteen or twenty depending on whether you have activated the "Twenty Ball".

I never really bothered with these as the other team seems compulsively interested with getting them—and whenever I did they seemed to put them back pretty damn quick!

If you find yourself losing drastically then just go for picking things up. Some teams just seem to be quite uncatchable when they have a large lead.

After the match, you have loads of options of your disposal. After you are presented with the other team's score, you can view the game. If you feel it worthwhile, train the team (buy stars) buy players and refuel other things.

I found a good idea was to save a bit of money up and buy star players, as they always seemed to go a lot better than your own. If you do buy, then a player of your own must be sold. His value is taken off the price of the player you want. Forwards are a good thing to go for. I became quite attached to a certain Arsenal, my centre forward, who seemed to be at one point the only player capable of scoring goals! It is worth building up two players more than others, normally the centre forward, as their value goes up and they become someone to relate to in the team!

There are other play options such as two player, one player league, one player cup, manager and knockout. The only good feature missing from the Amiga version is the ability to save and replay classic goals! Shame really, some can be very satisfying to watch again.

The graphics at first look not really very good, but they fit the game very well and once you learn what's what then they are quite nice. The graphics on the option screen, although slightly slow are really good. I particularly liked the Amiga-style icon system for selections.

The sound is not too impressive, really, but suits the game and once understood helps you to get into the game more.

Overall, I recommend any one has a look at this, even if like me, you don't like the kind of game. It really is a bloody addictive stuff!

Designed by the Bitmap Brothers, you can't really fault it in any design terms. Very carefully worked out and tested, it adds up to a brilliant game. We want more Bitmap comments on the old team would really be appreciated. It is really concerning and any bit brother is reading this look us for them! (C) — the art's a job centre! Ed.)

Go and buy this game, I promise you'll love it!

It is a feature that in the futuristic team sport, all the player's appear to have decided to form a ring around an imaginary camp fire and sing songs!

TERMINATOR 2 FILM REVIEW

Ten years later and Arnold's back, but this time he's not on a killing mission. He's a Terminator cyborg reprogrammed and sent back to the 1980s to protect John Connor, son of Sarah Connor, the Terminator's quarry in the original film.

In the future, John Connor becomes the resistance's leader. He turns his fight against the machine onslaught of Judgment, a military defense project built in the late 1980s by humans that went terribly wrong. Signal had, yikes, triggered a huge nuclear war ("Judgment Day") in the late 1980s which devastated the human population.

When the Terminator is sent back to the 1980s, it's not to kill John Connor, but to protect him. It's a twist on the Terminator's original mission. In the original film, the Terminator was sent back to the 1980s to kill John Connor, but in this film, it's sent back to protect him. It's a twist on the Terminator's original mission.

EVERYONE'S A WINNER (BABY) III

Hi (Twinkle!) It's the YC Office Fairy back again to inform all you lucky, lucky YC readers who's won the compo in the past few issues.

If you're a lucky enough sod to have won a prize, don't call us for a month or so, 'cos we're so busy editing the magazine that we've barely got time to stuff compo prizes into envelopes.

So, without much further adding, here are the winners for the compo run in YC's dynamic June issue (still available from our back issues department, only... [Smack] Ouch! Back Issues Ed)...

"I've got inflatable balls" compo

This was your chance to win an inflatable American football, if you could answer a question about London's most successful American football team. The answer was 'The London Monarchs' and the lucky winners are: Jason Prochard, Stratford; M.C. Coleman, London; Jason Potts, Merton; Shane McElroy, Co. Down; Andrew Gatench, Hull.

"YC Goody Bag" (June)

The only thing you needed to do for this was to send in a postcard with the name of the prize you wanted to win on it. There are three of them in the bag (well a rather battered Polish Sinterbraker hat, as it goes) and...

TEST DRIVE II

The Collection

Richard Taylor reviews the sequel to Test Drive. Is this the road to hell? — Choose your steed and go with speed...

Supertown comes hard when sitting in a diner listening to Steve Miller and the disks and clunks of pool balls.

noises of urban life and clinics going about their nefarious business. (OK, settings right, now the review, please! Ed.)

When the game has loaded, you are presented with a menu, giving the option to change your car, opponent and setting. There are five disks in the package, four of which are dedicated to selection the above.

There are already a few cars in the master disk and two other disks. These range from top-of-the-range sports

Mayday I should be fast-car-crashing down the road with the sounds of Mayday's 'Master of Puppets' blaring out of a 300 watt player. I'm sure that would help.

Unfortunately, I don't have access to a fast car and I don't live near the sea. Instead, I will have to do with a sitting room, with a large table, a set and the

If the idea of fast cars appeals to you, then maybe you should look at this game and play your favorite loud music very loudly indeed.

Remember Test Drive! Well that, believe it or not, is the sequel. You may also remember that the first one had limited cars and only one landscape to drive through. This is where the follow up differs.

OO-ER! YC'S GOING A BIT FUNNY:

Yep, your love (or) mag is having a funny turn, throwing about on the floor like a flipped turtle, and writing its readers after drinking a strong, bubbling concoction.

But what's happening, m'lad?

FUNNY THING 1: The design is going to become fuzzy, flighty, and as downright frothy that you'll wonder when you put your electric-resistant glasses!

FUNNY THING 2: The regular columns are going to become a bit more informative (and a bit more funny)!

FUNNY THING 3: There'll be coding and coding more colour than ELOP before (it'll be like we had an accident in a paint factory), so you'll have to put away your crayons - cause we've done it for you!

FUNNY THING 4: Loads more reviews will be scattered around the monthly well-endowed pages!

FUNNY THING 5: And we see the incredible "from-the-dead"-style return of Rik "Anique are crap really, genius my Commas leak" Henderson, as Group Editor and all-round cynical old (P) head!

ALSO:

THE "YC HUMILIATION TOUR PART TWO (RECURS)

Steven Peck volunteered to lead the YC "genius" more sandwiches and coke team, and they'll wish they hadn't when they find out their office has been turned into a small hotel for a number of homeless bums (i.e. The YC team).

A NEW, IMPROVED VERSION OF ON THE TAPE:

The tape is going to be well played and no mistake. Firstly, we're giving you ten incredibly stinky FOL games (some of which you'll have heard of, and some are completely original), plus one damn of an upcoming ball game. And secondly, the On The Tape section (initially "Wants of Steel") is to SPAND and give you some interesting things that nobody else has thought of yet!

YC OCTOBER '91

It's as shiny as dog faeces!

OUT SEPTEMBER 27

Once upon a time we really, really tried to supply society what was started on the next month page, but now we could't give a crap (so at the next month page) and the actual real contents of the specified magazine were in any way different (it's only because we've found something even more silly to put in instead).

IT'S A COMPUTER GAME OF 90 MINUTES...

As the new season arrives, Jason Miller was 'over the moon' to be given a whole lotta football management aims to look at. But 'cos they all look the same, he decided to not really mention them at all.

YES! JASON THE FOOTIE SIM KING SPEAKS!

Well folks here, Jason the now expert will give you an extra lot of advice for nothing. We fans in '92 are considerably for our readers and don't want you to waste your money. If the game is rubbish, we'll say it's rubbish - I am not the sort of person to play around with my words.

So out of the four footie sims, try for the best in Striker Manager! With Professional Footballer a very close second.

These are the sort of games the Germans practice on and lose! They are the champions of the world. So why are you standing around? Football - and you could be the best manager of England and have glory just like in 1966!

Use your 424 or 433 tactic, to become number one, there are not numbers for any but on Chinese restaurant!

JASON MILLER

(P.S. Thank you Jason, you can be down here! Not!)

3D Constructi

"Build it up, build it up, build it higher! Build it up, up, up, up, up into the sky-er!" sang Richard Taylor as he tried out this 'treescape' game creator.

As I gently drifted back into the real world from a sleep that peacefully included slumps, I wondered to myself what it would be like to use a 3D, almost "virtual reality" generator on the 64. "Comely bed simulator" I mused in a dazed 64% reality thought. Certainly like a Commodore game.

After waking up, yawning and stretching myself to a 5 mile jog, dead (a) - the thought still stuck in my head. Would it be possible to generate an entire 3 dimensional world moving smoothly from location to location with the ability to fully explore the terrain? No. I decided suddenly, it would! As more factual thoughts of entering a public house entered my mind.

The next morning after slipping into the more than adequately luxurious YC office, I was greeted by an enthusiastic Mr Dave, trapping me first in fiscal clutches a large black, telecommunications box.

"Look!", he spluttered excitedly. "It's a 3D Construction kit for the 64 I've often wondered, in hypogeographical, what it would be like to use one of these. Here, go and make it!"

So I sat down and wasted 10 minutes for the disk to load.

Where do I start? 3D Construction Kit is a pretty incredible patch of software. It has many applications but I suppose the one that will appeal to YG readers the most is the fact that you can create your own games with it. These games, once created, can be compiled to run independently of the main program and even, according to the literature, can be distributed and sold as long as the program is credited. Certainly an example of a game created with this.

package

So what's it all about? How do you go about it?

Basically, the program will let you select shapes (cube, pyramid, treescape etc) that can be placed anywhere within the allocated area. These objects can then be shrunk, stretched, rotated and moved around until you decide what's right.

Once you have put a shape in place, other shapes can be added to create a desired object. For example, if you placed a pyramid on top of a cube, with a lot of stretching and shrinking, a house type shape will be achieved.

Windows and doors can then be added using the two dimensional shapes. Doors can be turned into windows that lead to other areas so you can actually enter your shape creation, it's worth studying this to get an idea of what you can do.

The control system is very easy to use as everything is mouse-driven.

The first menu contains load/save/create/delete and colour, etc. Programs specifically built with you are displayed.

Next comes the main screen where the movement menu. You can do the standard Dungeon Master type movement from here: up, forward, backward, left, right and right and right. The whole game can be rotated from the side and can be moved up and down so that you can move anywhere within a 3D dimensional space.

Y.C. can have the power to destroy a level, alter levels or even create a new level. You can do this by F1 and F2.

Well, well, give me a good game type name. I'll give you a "treescape" type name and you will, although it is a great game and YG will want you to try it out. You can do this.

Very good, the name you need is "treescape". You can have a shape that will be in the sky, a shape that will be in the ground, a shape that will be in the water, and a shape that will be in the air. You can have a shape that will be in the sky, a shape that will be in the ground, a shape that will be in the water, and a shape that will be in the air.

Of the main menu you... know? It's a 3D to you.

With a bit of imagination any shape can be achieved so the only limitations are really your own imagination. The demo game brilliantly demonstrates the use of one go to the front (front Panel) which will tell you after the dimensions of the selected object.

tion Kit

The shade menu will alter the shade or colour of the object.

Once you have put together an environment you can then enter the programming mode to set conditions within your world. For example, you can allocate doors that can be opened or enlarged, walls etc that can be destroyed. I forgot to mention that you can control any of the objects with a keyboard that can be programmed.

Does it look difficult? If you can't program in BASIC, the language is very simple and contains commands like OPEN, ROT, TRAN, etc.

Does it look easy to use? It does not look like this.

Does it look like this?

Does it look like this?

Does it look like this?

can become very fluent in it's use.

It is impossible to explain all the features in this review, there are many more for 'fine tuning' of things, mainly through the language.

This couldn't really be called purely a game engine, as it has many more computer applications. I don't know if these would work properly well on the 64 (machine limitation, not software) but it would be possible to design an entire or the smallest detail, car, rocket, boat or clockwork fish. The possibilities are almost endless.

Maybe we could run a competition for the best design or game using this package.

If you want to write a game and you cannot program, then I would recommend you buy this. If you want to use your 64 for design then buy this. If you are bored of your computer and want to do something new on it, then buy this.

In fact, it would encourage me to just about anybody with a 64 as I am sure anyone can colour themselves with it in some way.

Overall, an extremely versatile piece of software technically amazing and great fun to use. This could be the future of home micro software, go and buy it!

AMERICAN 3D POOL

I played a 3D pool game on the Amiga some time ago and it really didn't seem to work very well. I don't think this would be very good at all.

I was surprised to find that it is really quite a playable game and it looks really good.

To actually aim at a ball, you are presented with a top-down 2D view of the table, and you must point the cursor at the space you want the ball to go to.

Once you have done this, a 3D table is displayed and you press fire to start the shot, pressing again when the cue-stick has reached the desired height. If you do not press fire a second time, then the shot goes to full power so you have to be quick.

The balls move well and bounce around in a convincing way. Once all the colours have been potted, the black ball must go down to assure your victory.

Two players can play, so it could be fun to play a friend, cheaper too.

There are other games you can pick within the program, such as Billiards, a tournament and even a trick shot editor.

The graphics look good and work really well and what sound there is fits exceptionally.

In all, a fun game, good to play a friend on and well definitely fit a rainy Sunday afternoon.

animes the bubble releases them and you have to go and pick them up. When you do this, they drop fruit that bounces away and can be retrieved for bonus points. Once all the minnows have been dropped out, then next screen is entered.

Sounds okay? Well, it gets really hard! There are over 100 levels and loads of bonus moving and bits.

The control is really good, you can bounce around everywhere and even on top of your own bubbles. If you have two joysticks and no friends, then go out and purchase for a few weeks to get to know people so you can invite them back to play two-player. It really is worth it.

Loads of graphics and lovely music and jingles, all adds up to a classic game.

that should not be missed at this budget price.

Great fun!

BUBBLE BOBBLE

I always wanted this game on my 64 when it first came out, this is the first time I've actually seen it. The arcade machine was pretty damn addictive and so is this version!

A quick explanation for anyone who is not familiar with this game: The idea is to guide this little fish (two players simultaneously) around a platform type screen, shooting various enemies with "killer bubbles". When you shoot the fish and you have to go and pick them up. When you do this, they drop fruit that bounces away and can be retrieved for bonus points. Once all the minnows have been dropped out, then next screen is entered.

Sounds okay? Well, it gets really hard! There are over 100 levels and loads of bonus moving and bits.

The control is really good, you can bounce around everywhere and even on top of your own bubbles. If you have two joysticks and no friends, then go out and purchase for a few weeks to get to know people so you

RENEGADE III

One again, you take the part of street-wise funky dude, the "Renegade", the all-around non-guy super hero who must again rescue his girlfriend from "barons of the future".

These forces have somehow managed to travel back in time and leave your girlfriend at the middle of a prehistoric level surrounded by dinosaurs and dinosaurs.

You must walk along beating up these things as this level, then you are teleported a bit further forward in time to assault Eggos with zombies and hieroglyphics and then to "dark age" England with Knights and dragons.

The control and movement is fairly standard with control moves when fire is held down. The enemies are fairly hard to kill, and require quite a bit of punishment.

Time is also tight, so you need to hurry.

This game looks good and the sound effects and music fit it really nicely. If you didn't like the previous in almost "Flimbo Quest" version.

The graphics, sprites in particular, are really good in this part with Capone's character standing around doing his thing.

If you make it through Renegades, then don't worry. This isn't really much like them at all.

I'd say this was worth buying if you're looking for a decent budget game.

THE UNTOUCHABLES

Poor old Sam. What a hard and challenging life he lived. Oh well, his shores I suppose. You get it 1930's Chicago and you take the part of Mr. Ross. In an attempt to bring justice to many gangsters and hoodlums. The ultimate objective is to find Al Capone and destroy his evil empire of booze and violence.

You start this mission in a warehouse. In which you must defeat various hordes of enemies in an attempt to accumulate enough to use which is being used to transport liquor in to America across the Canadian border. You can swap between untouchables - you need to change to avoid the henchmen.

Level three takes place in back street alleys with you trying to stop Capone's accountant from making a getaway to the train station.

The fourth level is at the train station.

In level five of Capone's henchmen has taken the accountant and therefore to against Capone.

You have saving of a good time, a large score movement operative is taking place and back-hangers are present. You must take the opportunity to beat their backs.

Also lying around are extra energy pods, ammunition and the like. Loads of badmen are wandering around, so you'd better be quick on the ground. Level five is a bridge.

most hit in five seconds. You must score a direct hit.

The final level takes place on a rooftop, chasing the head hinner. If all levels are complete, then Capone is put behind bars and all is well.

The graphics are excellent and the music is very atmospheric. It plays well and is great value for a budget game.

VINDICATORS

The arcade version of this was OK, not brilliant, but a certain fix factor was there. Since it seemed to rely heavily on graphics, I couldn't see it converting too well to the old 64. It hasn't really.

The idea is to complete various missions of a mean team by destroying everything within them and collecting coins and bonus objects to modify your tank.

Enemies include gun posts, tank and UFOs. Gun posts must be shot at the right time to be destroyed.

Also lying around are mines that must be avoided at all costs. You are given an energy bar and can take quite a few hits.

The control of the tank is slightly awkward and must be rotated through 45 degrees with forward to move in that direction.

One good thing is that two players can play at the same time, so friends can join in.

Once a screen is completed you are given the option to modify your tank with extra firepower, shields etc. to build up a proverbial better-late-than-never.

If enough bonuses are completed then you are transported to another planet that must also be destroyed. Once they are all destroyed then, er, I don't know, actually I never got that far.

That graphics are good in places, with some flashy effects to keep you amused. Loads of rotating characters and colours.

It's ok as far as budget games go, as if you were a fan of the arcade version it's worth a look. Nothing outstanding, dulled by bad control and lack of depth.

KEYS TO MARIAMON WINDCHATTER ELECTRONIC ARTS DISK

If you have ever wanted to drive into role-playing but thought that the present batch of RPGs are a little bit heavy, or if you wanted a little more action to your RPGs, then Keys to Mariamon is your bag.

Including short, concise documentation, Keys allows you to you assume the role of one of four heroes: Hunter, Blacksmith, Scholar or King's Courier (the only female character). Each has two basic ratings for Speed, Dexterity, Strength and Life Points.

Your quest is to save the town from the monsters who come out to loot each evening. Final success hinges on clearing out the catacombs beneath Mariamon and confronting the usual "ultimate bad guy" who is responsible for all the trouble.

Actually the title tells you of one of the game's principle assets - Keys! You start with a key to the strongrooms.

Access to the catacombs below hinges on collecting other keys, each of over more previous media. The better the key, the further the access. You will have quite an extensive key ring before the end of the game.

Weapons available provide a good selection of the usual records, axes and hammers (which suffer wear and tear). There are magic weapons, which means you must suffer up to monsters, look them in the eye and press the fire button for 60 years worth!

The bows and arrows actually fire "wapped" missiles, so more are you to loose from a safer distance. The downside about arrows is that you can only pack 50 of them and 50 shots can go pretty quickly.

Magic weaponry is available too, Hams and spice ingredients: flowers from Mallow province, Hissacross Hair (Warlord's catnip), jade from Empress's domain, gold dust (Tieve's dust), peach seed (great valley below the Cliff's cave)

KNIGHT'S OF LEGEND

General Tip: To track gold, have the character with the gold hidden item, then trade it to the character who needs gold - whoever has sell 1 for the same amount. To get lots of gold, trade all items to two or three characters (one won't have enough pockets to hold everything). Then have the same two return the characters with the items. Have those who buy items and the two, then end the game. When you restart the game, the items will have been duplicated.

THE MAGIC CANDLE

At Dargmag go all the way north and east until you reach the door to the Teleport Chamber on the north wall, enter it and use three Cubes to teleport to Yonion. Go north to Crystal Grotto.

Measdon is under the King a Gerdle. Take the stairs down to level two. Take the stairs down to level three. Take the stairs to level four and then again to level five. Go to the Oberlix and get the word "Sassinsaru". Go back to level three. Take the Portal to level two. Take the new stairs down to level three. Go to the teleport chamber. Use the pyramidal sphere (pyramid to teleport to Kneissat). Get the location of the Oberlix above the wizard's eye. Go the word "Ebbesgorn". Go to Kaldi's temple and get the chart. Go to Kaldi in Dakhland and get the altitudes named. Go to Shran.

Pinge again, oh and well intercepted by the swarthy little number nine, Conclio Mexican. This twenty-one-year-old half back, remarkably slow for 6' 2", square-shouldered bulking giant, hair flowing in the wind, bright-eyed, pert, young for his age but oh so old in so many ways. For a thirty-nine-year-old you wouldn't expect such speed. Normally considered slow, he's incredibly fast as he wanders aimlessly around, sweeping up and taking the defence to the cleaners. Who would have thought, though many expected it, that this remarkable forty-five-year-old, 6' 4" dwarf of a man, who is still only seventeen in some parts of the world, would ever really be. Oh and there was a goal there apparently, and now it's Pinge - back to Pinge. Pinge again - a long ball to Pinge. [cackle]

BRIDEWELL TAXIS (live at the Hacienda) (ReVision)

If you haven't heard of them before, the Bridewell Taxis are a rather spiky group from London (some of the songs, whoppers, etc.) whose most interesting feature, apart from their ability to write greatly entertaining and often obscenely songs, is that they have a transistor to add an extra "sample" to their sound.

Ultimately, this vid will be a good souvenir if you were there, but as an introduction to the band, their current story so far LP is a lot better.

O'man, hands up all those that were recently puked out by the plague of baby comedies. Funny enough, even though I'd immediately put my hand up (I didn't have one of the little lightning myself), there seems a lot of the films that really stood out as good pictures. Three Men and a Cradle (Burt Reynolds), of course, Look Who's Talking Now (like the recent release of Three Men and a Little Lady on vid, 20/20) is trying to catch the tale of the (Baby Boom) just before it hits the shores and slips out, with the release of Look Who's Talking Too on tape.

This time Mike Myers (just voiced by the excellent Bruce Willis) has a little vector to contend with (as voiced by Rosalind Wiseman) and the formula is even more stretched by the excellent voice of Mike's best friend by Damon Wayans.

Unfortunately, if you've seen the project, you've seen this laugh too. The mixing is very good, and the jokes are pretty good, but the idea is just not the plot as shallow as the Golden Pudding pool. Recommended for those who haven't seen the excellent first film.

Hook (Kevin Bacon) is a director straight out of film school and into the "big time" of trying to get the grade when it comes to Hollywood breaks. Unfortunately, he finds out that to make it in the tough lot of film making, his friends and even all have to take a definite back seat, as he falls over himself that he never even knew existed.

Now if this sounds like a completely crap idea for a film you might as well go rent out Hooky (never heard) and get yourself some popcorn.

The Big Picture is a very clever and amusing spoof of the Hollywood scene, and although you have to be on the ball at all times - its plot seems to drift from one small, seemingly insignificant scene to another performance will exceed your wildest laughs, an episode right, and a year to film out another Mike's Best movie the topmost here in a career.

Reotoneps (Chrysalis)

More cerebral garage rock that rose with the Blue Aeroplanes, possibly one of the most underrated groups of the last few years. Their melodic groove-buffed rock songs have so rarely made it into the charts so noisy ones.

Lead singer Gerard Longley first took a mass of poetic words and phrases as the rest of the band, and there's quite a few of them - about him with a barrage of guitars.

Some of the songs on this LP are rather quiet but most of 'em look rock out as the way that's best, many mean electric guitars in a mission to entertain.

The Blue Aeroplanes are long-time high-powered guitar musicians of pedigree, get Reotoneps and get ready for a pleasant fight.

SOAPDISH

Stars: Sally Field, Kevin Kline, Whoopi Goldberg

American daytime TV is a busy, low-budget affair, in general. 'The Soap Dish' (aka 'The National', repeated daytime soap in this film) is no exception.

Sally Field plays Colleen Tabert, the show's longest-running and most popular actor, who has to put up with a life of last-minute script changes and the most outrageous bunch of off-screen distractions (and even that you'll have seen for a while). Kevin Kline heads scriptwriter Peter Goldsberg is on her side, should he be to contend with the scheming of her co-stars and other actors, not to mention the sudden reappearance in the script of Jeffrey Anderson (John), although he was dropped out twenty years previously, at the insistence of Haller's wealthy co-writer Mortara (Michael).

The film itself turns out to be something of a love affair, and although entering in parts, just doesn't add that much to the genre of time-programs about Soap. (The funny thing is, Colleen Tabert, writing a script, just for the fact to her ago of being recognized and the chance to see a new (and immediately successful) actor's premiere.)

Unfortunately, the writing seems to have been largely lifted from the classic Dorte Hoffman film 'Soap'. And, sadly for Soapdish, Hoffman did it better.

(Certificate '18)
Stars: Sylvester Stallone, Donald Sutherland

000... A film we've all heard of, and to be honest, I saw this when it came out as much as I can. And I must admit I find it quite entertaining in a level of

'yeh, it is in the rules' way!

Stallone is a model prisoner (that doesn't mean he is a model from work, although some would say he is acting it) and when he's transferred from an open prison to the bank (and/or bridge of Galloway - run by a Minister with a chip the size of several potatoes on his shoulder (Sylvester Sutherland) - things aren't quite so cozy.

The film, like a few that have greeted us recently (An Innocent Man, Death Warrant, etc.) is not as much a tale of one man, more a look at the American justice system as a whole, and if such pictures cost, the ending here is extremely good. Lock Up is a film that would be enjoyed by non-prison addicts, and lovers of Stallone violence-orientated movies alike.

FROM THE SCRIPT II: THE REVENGE

Dynamic Dave Hughes casts his net over the film world from his office in the heart of London's cine-city.

FAIRY TALES

OF BATS, CATS AND RATS

What's left seems like only last month I was discussing together this spectacular speculative speculations (look it up, babe!). And - shadowed know - it was!

Reading between the schedules there is a lot going on - and although at the moment much of it seems to involve SCULVER, GAMES or THEIRS, by the time you read the 475 mostly for bats, cats and rats.

Bats: the intriguing ROOMS FAMILY movie - starring (as predicted in Tales a hundred years ago) Paul Judd (Dennis), Anthony Huston (Morticia) and Christopher Lloyd (Uncle Fester, really) - is all wrapped up and ready for Christmas. Based on the Charles Addams cartoons of the '30s and '40s (and later the American '50s TV series), THE ADDAMS FAMILY is likely to be a well-cast hoot.

Curse Annette Bening's coquish pregnancy by Warren Beatty has lost the what would have been a classic role - Cameron in HAUNTS.

After a brief affair with Madonna and Cher, the tales (scripts as you know) ended on Melville "No the top". Prefer for the role.

I sincerely hope it can't lose (you just can't cut out for actor Michael J. Pollard (the man who gave Michael J. Fox the '4' in his name) as the rat-catcher - it's a glossy, gory 87 thriller set in a flooded London in the year 2008, where a violent clade in studio scarring for sequel script again - most uplifting.

While THE OMEN IV, THE AWAKENING and PSYCHO IV, THE BEGINNING have both been traded out for America TV, further statements have been announced for a sequel of other product. THE NAKED GUN 2½ 1/2 FOR THE RECORD will follow FRANCIS II and FANTASIA CONTINUED (an update of the classic Disney feature) into production while HIGHLANDER II, THE MAGNAN (also predicted in Tales) has also got the green light.

Contrary to my Tales predictions, however, HA will star Christopher Lambert, and will be not connections between the first HIGHLANDER and the appalling sequel - good news, if the script can pull it off.

Meanwhile, don't believe anything you read about T3 - director James Cameron is off to make THE CROWDED ROOM, a true story about a night with 24 different personalities, while Area's ready to make a big mistake with THE CRUSADERS for Paul TOTAL, RECALL, Verhoeven.

Meanwhile, the news that ALVIN is back in London this month for $20-25 million worth of re-shoots (Hey, T3 did well, let a throw some more money at Adi!) and I have some massive crew E-mails to prove it.

Only 575 (the 14th) they're black with the ALVIN 3 trip on the front and an extremely true word (a quote from the movie: I'm told on the back if you want one send a cheque payable to M. Doree to 64 Upper Tollymore Park, London NE 4HG).

A, girl) and that they'll wait for Annette as an I suspect - choose Recess Welch asked (how you really did read that how fast).

Paris (Dennis, but even more) I spent a pleasant couple of days budgeting through sewage on the various London locations of the Ranger THE HITCHER Hunter/Kim MANNING Carroll movie SPLIT RECORD.

Also starring BORRIS AND CLYDE's great character showing people's hearts for Paris (the world's best).

SPLIT RECORD I've arranged some time early next year.

SEQUEL AND DESTROY

The unprecedented success of TELEVISION 2 ADAMANT DAY has sent
